Freeze is 1st step in property tax reform

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Property owners in Michigan will receive a break this year, and they hold the destiny of property tax reform in their hands as state lawmakers on Thursday approved a bill that would "freeze" property assessments for 1991.

The state House of Representatives approved legislation that will freeze the 1992 tax bills at the 1991 levels and, in 1992, voters in the state will also have an opportunity to amend the state Constitution to limit future assessments to the rate of inflation.

While local representatives assailed the Senate version as "irresponsible," they applauded the House-approved legislation.

The Senate version would have rolled assessments back to the 1990 level.

"I feel that that was irresponsible of them to do so," said Justine Barns (D-Westland). "They knew or should have known that the cities and school districts had already approved their budgets for the year based on the 1991 assessments. Local school and city officials would have had to go back and revise their figures. It would have caused havoc. I don't think the Senate knew what it was doing when they sent their version over to us."

In the meantime, Rep. William Keith (D-Garden City), whose district includes Inkster, said he "was delighted that the Legislature approved the freeze."

"Today's action by the House and Senate is the first step toward major property tax relief in Michigan," Keith added. "This property tax freeze doesn't completely resolve the problem, but it is encouraging that the Legislature took the step together."

Under the proposal, Keith stressed, 1992 property tax assessments on all types of property would be frozen at 1991 levels. The proposal calls for a constitutional amendment to permanently cap homestead assessment increase at the rate of inflation or 5 percent, whichever is less, which would have to be approved by state voters in the 1992 general election.

"I am particularly pleased with Gov. Engler and that the Senate Republicans accepted the position of the House Democrats," Keith said, but he warned that "all sides in the legislature and the administration have to do a lot more work to achieve a meaningful, permanent property tax cut for Michigan residents."

Rep. James Kosteva (D-Canton) said that the House initiatives on the freeze helps to avert a crisis that schools and local units of government would have faced had the Senate-passed version prevailed. The senate would have created havoc among the local units by reducing their 1991 revenues.

For example, Kosteva pointed out, the Senate Plan would have cost Wayne County $9 million; Romulus schools about $1 million; Plymouth-Canton schools $3.3 million and the city of Wayne about $265,000.

"We believe that the age of spiraling assessment increases will be over with the approval of this package," Kosteva said. "Assuming voter approval in 1992, homeowners would never see their assessments go up greater than inflation. However, this is only one side of the property tax equation. High millage rates and Michigan's over-dependence on property taxes remain as major problems."

Resident is killed in shootout with police

A 33-year-old Westland man was shot and killed in Northville Township Thursday night, as state police officers working undercover attempted to purchase cocaine from him.

Ronald John Melnyk was attempting to sell 7 ounces of cocaine to undercover state police officers in the parking lot of the Meijer store in Northville Township at Eight Mile Road, when he became suspicious of the officers, and attempted to flee, according to Inspector Joe Koenig of the Michigan State Police.

"For some reason he panicked, and drove away very quickly," Koenig said. "In the process, he struck one of our officers who was on foot and wearing a fully marked police jacket. He ran him over."

At that time, shots were fired, he said. Melnyk then continued driving onto the Interstate-275 freeway ramp north of Eight Mile Road.

A fully marked Novi police car, and a state police surveillance vehicle met Melnyk head on. Melnyk's car collided with the surveillance vehicle, and then struck the Novi police car. "At or around the time of the collision with the Novi police officer, he was shot," Koenig said.

Melnyk continued shooting at the police officers after he was hit by the bullet that minutes later claimed his life, Koenig said.

"If you remember that shooting in Florida that involved the FBI and two suspects, the two suspects suffered fatal wounds," he said. "We've learned that a fatal shot doesn't always take them down right away. In many instances, the suspect continues shooting and killing minutes after he has been fatally shot."

Two police officers, one state police officer and a Novi police officer, were taken to an area hospital, where they were treated and released, Koenig said.

Jewelry thief remains at large, police say

The gunmen who robbed and killed Chicago businessman Subhash Jain knew what they wanted. And got it.

Tragically, they also took 40-year-old Jain's life in the process.

Jain was completing a business trip to the Detroit area, and was finishing up the paper work to return his car at a rental agency, located at 7788 Merriman in Romulus, when he was slain.

Waiting in the parking lot, in a gold-colored vehicle on that Thursday, Oct. 10, 1985 afternoon were two men.

Unsolved Mysteries

While one of the robbers, described by witnesses as a white male, 5-feet 11-inches, with sandy-brown hair, sat behind the wheel of the vehicle, the other got out and intercepted Jain.

Jain was ordered to hand over his briefcase, which contained jewelry. The Chicago businessman obeyed. However, it appears he may have had second thoughts and ran after the robbers. He began shouting, maybe to attract attention, and reached the getaway vehicle when he was shot by his robber.

The two robbers then sped away in the car.

"The victim was carrying an undetermined amount of precious stones," recalled Lt. Ken Kraus, of the Romulus Police Department. "The killers knew what they wanted and killed to get it."

Jain, a salesman who resided in DesPlaines, Ill., had served his accounts in the area and, according to police records, may have had as much as $500,000 in uncut stones in his possession.

Witnesses told police that the victim began hammering on the hood of the suspect's vehicle after he had been robbed. That's when one of the robbers shot him. He was killed with what police believe was a small caliber weapon.

Jain was rushed to Annapolis Hospital, later transferred to Westland Medical, where he later died.

Police said the victim was shot once, and the wound didn't appear to be life-threatening.

"We have had a lot of people working on this case," Kraus said. "The people at the rental agency have been helpful. We have been able to trace the victim's whereabouts while he was serving his accounts, but we haven't been able to find these guys."

"We need a help from the public," Kraus added.

Kraus said the triggerman was described as being a black male, about 6 feet. He had on a blue coat.

If you have any information about Subhash Jain's killers, Romulus police you to call them at 941-8400. If you wish to talk to a reporter first, contact Associated Newspapers staff writer Tom Mooradian at 729-4000.

County air show to draw added corporate support

By taking over as the organizers of the Wayne County Air Show, county officials hope to make it a premier family event throughout the state.

The air show will have a new name and a new look this year in effort to increase corporate support and therefore increase revenues, according to Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara.

McNamara and air show planners met last week with representatives of the media and various corporations to discuss the changes.

The Willow Run event will be called AirMichigan '91, and a new logo has been designed incorporating that name.

"The name change reflects the broader scope of this air show," McNamara said. "Our goal is to make AirMichigan one of the premier family entertainment events, not only in the Greater Detroit area, but throughout the state."

The event will be staged June 8 and 9 at Willow Run Airport. Other changes focus on improved sponsorship opportunities, improved hospitality and preferred seating programs.

McNamara's five-year plan for AirMichigan also includes improvements to the layout of Willow Run and additional ground and air attractions.

"The county has made a major, long-term commitment to make AirMichigan a showcase for the Detroit Metropolitan area and the state of Michigan," McNamara said. "To insure our success we are looking for the support of the corporate community throughout Greater Detroit."

The show this year will feature a salute to troops returning from the Gulf, and will make a positive statement about those corporations associated with the show, according to Robert McDowell, director of marketing for AirMichigan '91.

The show this year will feature the U.S. Navy Blue Angels. Other military aircraft that performed as part of Operation Desert Storm will perform again above Willow Run Airport. Ground displays will also provide visitors with an up-close look at the aircraft used to free the people of Kuwait, McDowell said.

Civilian air acts will also draw visitors. Patty Wagstaff, a U.S. champion aerobatics performer, will be on hand, as will a skydiving team and a wingwalker who hails from Southfield.

AirMichigan '91 will also mark the 50th anniversary of Willow Run Airport. Several activities, including an appearance by a B-24 vintage World War II aircraft that was built at Willow Run, will commemorate the anniversary. The Willow Run museum will also be open for tours during the show.

"From many standpoints, 1991 is a new beginning for our air show," McNamara said. "There are exciting new developments in place and public interest in the military is very high. We are optimistic that AirMichigan '91 will be our best air show ever."

Various sponsorship and preferred seating programs will be announced by McDowell as planning continues.

Bicyclists become defensive drivers

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Staff Writer

Bicycling is considered a recreational sport, but as more and more cyclists begin to share the main roads with motor vehicles, bicyclists have to learn to be defensive drivers.

About 1,000 bicyclists are killed and some 50,000 suffer disabling injuries each year, according to the National Safety Council. What cyclists have to do to protect themselves is learn the traffic rules.

What cyclists have to do to protect themselves is learn the traffic rules.

"When a bicyclist is crossing the street, they should use the crosswalk," Gotham said. "Also remember most bikes are made for only one person. Having one person ride on the handle bars while another pedals isn't safe."

"Bicyclists should also never grab on to a moving vehicle or pull someone else."

"You can get a bike license at the police precinct for $1 which is good for a lifetime," Gotham said. "If the bike is ever stolen, this helps the police track it down."

Gotham also recommends the following:

- Always ride with the traffic.
- Stay as close to the curb as possible.
- Obey all traffic signs.
- Keep the bike in good working order.
- Don't pull out in front of traffic.

• If an individual is riding on a main street, wear light- and bright-colored clothing, especially at night, in order for motor vehicles to see you.

"If you're riding with a group of friends, always ride in a single line," Gotham said. "If you have packages, put them in a basket on the bike, if you have one, or carry a backpack. You need to be able to control the bike handles at all times."

When bicycling near railroad tracks, always walk across the tracks instead of riding over them because there is a risk of falling onto the tracks, according to Gotham.

Most bicycle accidents are caused by people just not paying attention, Gotham said. Last year Wayne had about 11 bicycle accidents. This year, three bicycle accidents have been reported in Wayne.

The Wayne precinct doesn't offer a class on bicycle safety, however, bicyclists can obtain a flyer with a list of rules and regulations through the Michigan Secretary of State offices.

The National Safety Council offers the following bicycle tips:

- Before riding into traffic: stop, look left, right, left again and over your shoulder.
- Make sure the bicycle has the right safety equipment: a red rear reflector; a white front reflector; a red or colorless spoke reflector on the rear wheel; an amber or colorless reflector on the front wheel; pedal reflectors; a horn or bell; and a rear view mirror.

• Wear a helmet. Head injuries cause about 75 percent of all bicycling fatalities.

Secretary keeps it moving

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER

Georgiana Kowalski wears a variety of hats as secretary for St. Mary's School in Wayne.

Her importance to the school is illustrated in a wall poster which shows a woman answering the phone at a vacant secretary's desk and, saying, "What do you mean she's sick today? We'll have to close the school."

"I take school registrations, do some accounting, type and answer the telephone as part of my regular duties, but I also do public relations plus a bit of nursing when someone needs a Band-Aid," Kowalski said. "I enjoy working in a one-girl office, but that means if we're extra busy, I'm the only one here to do the job. There's always a variety of things to do. It never gets boring."

Kowalski proudly notes the school has a hot lunch program, music and gym for the 280 enrolled in kindergarten through eighth grade. In addition, the school offers before- and after-school care for the children of working parents.

"We're a busy school," Kowalski said, pointing to a bulletin board filled with announcements of activities. "It's nice to offer all of these things, even though each additional thing makes me just a bit busier."

The family-type atmosphere at St. Mary's School makes work a pleasure, according to Kowalski.

"Each of us helps the others. The cooperation and support between the principal, staff and volunteers creates a good working environment, and the kids are great, too. We always get compliments about our students from visitors and from places where we go on field trips," Kowalski said.

"I feel very strongly about the quality education, caring and dedication provided to our students by the staff. My years of experience offer me the opportunity to help parents feel good and confident about the choice they made in sending their children to St. Mary's School.

I can honestly say I really do love my job. Each facet of my job is important and I would like to think I make a difference."

"My association with the school began in 1975 as a parent of two students, Marlene and Lorrie. This led to my working as a lunch mother, para-professional, assistant librarian and serving on fund-raising committees. I worked as religious formation secretary for four years before I moved on to my present position six years ago. In fact, I waited for this position to be open, and I'd like to retire from here."

She noted other employers might pay higher wages, but they cannot match the intangible benefits she receives from her work.

Kowalski's daughters both attended St. Mary's School. One went on to Gabriel Richard High School while the other attended Divine Child High School before entering college.

"I got a beautiful letter from one of my daughters that said 'Thanks, Mom, for my education.' It was wonderful to learn that she really appreciates the private school education," Kowalski said.

Like a good secretary, Kowalski provided the interviewer with a typed list of background information, and reminded her school registrations are open for all grades.

(Editor's note: April 24 is Secretaries Day, a day to honor all secretaries and their contributions to businesses and professional offices.)

Candidates night is set in Canton

The League of Women Voters for the Plymouth-Canton area will host a candidates forum featuring Bryan Amann and Jim Poole.

Amann and Poole will face off May 7 in a general election for the 11th District for the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

Amann is campaigning on the Democratic ticket and Poole is a Republican.

The election is necessary as a result of Milton Mack's resignation from the county commission, following his appointment to a state court post.

Amann is an assistant county executive to Edward McNamara, and is spearheading changes in flight patterns over Detroit Metropolitan Airport in an effort to curb noise. He is a resident of Wayne.

Poole is a former Canton Township supervisor, and is currently working as a consultant. He is a resident of Canton.

Issues considered to be key in this election are the environment, expansion of the airport and the relationship between the commission and the county executive.

The forum will begin at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Canton Township Hall. The public is encouraged to attend and to ask questions.

The election affects residents of the 11th District which includes Wayne, Canton Township, Romulus, Van Buren, Belleville, Sumpter Township, Flat Rock and Rockwood.

Don't blame dog, blame owner

The recent attacks by dogs on children is a tragedy, but not one we can blame completely on the animals involved.

Each summer we hear stories of children being bitten by Pit Bulls and Rottweilers. Biting, however, is not exclusive to that breed.

All dog breeds are capable of biting, and will bite if threatened.

The secret is in the training of dogs not to feel threatened by an approaching child.

The blame for dog attacks should be squarely placed on the pet owners' shoulders.

The dog will sit in judgment for its actions, and will probably be killed, but the owner will receive a mere "slap on the wrist".

This is completely unfair, knowing that in fact, it is entirely the fault of the pet owner or owners.

Just as Rottweilers and Pit Bulls can be vicious, they can be sweet and loving family pets. Nothing is as precious looking as a Golden Retriever, yet if mistreated or misunderstood by its owner it could become vicious with little notice.

Before owning a dog, potential pet handlers should be questioned thoroughly to make sure they understand the responsibility involved with owning the pet.

The Michigan Humane Society is often lambasted for the rigorous interviewing process potential pet owners are put through before they take Fido home.

They have reason to be concerned with who owns a pet. The MHS has seen pets mistreated in more ways than we can know. They know that in the hands of the wrong person, a loving pet can become a mean animal.

Pet owners should take their dogs for obedience training and should seek advice from trainers when questions arise.

People should only own dogs if they are prepared for the work - physical and emotional - involved.

Fido is not always going to be a perfect angel. He may have an accident or two on the carpeting. He will most definitely shed and he may chew on some furnishings.

It is when the owner mishandles these actions that the dog will develop bad habits.

Dogs should have room to run and roam. They should not be placed on short chains and left outdoors. Family pets should not be exclusively outside dogs.

They should not be caged for long periods of time, but rather only for training purposes.

They should not be given mixed signals.

Most importantly, however, a dog - or any pet - requires love and care. They want to be played with, petted, brushed and cuddled.

Read before signing

Another round of recall petitions have been filed by the Wayne Charter Committee against members of the Wayne City Council.

Since they began collecting signatures for this batch of petitions, this newspaper has received several telephone call from residents questioning their tactics.

Several of these callers felt they were being harassed and lied to when asked to sign.

Others simply were unable to gather facts from the individual seeking the signature.

Those who questioned before they signed should be congratulated.

If you knew what you were signing, and chose to support the recall that is fine too.

Those who signed the petitions without adequate information "just because" or due to harassment should be admonished.

Charter group gives city a bad name

I am outraged by the actions of the Wayne Charter Committee on their obvious and blatant attempts to destroy our city. Let's face it, a recall in a small and productive city like Wayne will politically and socially devastate the city and its residents. People who back and support recalls are generally self-centered, egotistic and uncaring citizens, or in slang "radicals". The Constitution and the Bill of Rights make this a free country - which in turn gives us the opportunity to elect and overthrow politicians on a regular basis. If recalls are as patriotic as the Wayne Charter Committee claims, then why don't all 50 states adopt them?

If an elected official isn't performing up to the voters' level of standards the voters of the jurisdiction can use their Constitutional right, and eliminate him or her at our free elections.

It is a proven fact that recalls tarnish a city's image and end up costing the residents thousands of dollars. Residents of recall cities generally have more problems after a recall, than prior to one. Take a look at some of the local cities around us that have heard several recall rumors and petitions. Do you want the city of Wayne to end up like some of these socially and financially troubled cities? Take a good look at Detroit, the appointed chief of police gets audited for stealing $1 million, does the mayor get recalled? No.

Now, if the so-called Wayne Charter Committee wants changes, have them file to run for election and oppose these elected officials the democratic way and not the Wayne Charter Committee way.

Thanks for the great support

Thanks for the letter and news clippings. It really makes us proud of what we are doing and of what we have done. If the people of America were not behind us, I don't think things would have been so well. I hope what I and my fellow comrades in arms have done shows that not just a nation, but the world is willing to work together as one to protect the weak and less fortunate.

Some of my friends paid the greatest sacrifice for our country, and because its people asked them to do what they had to do, they gave their life for freedom.

Before I received your letter, I wrote the Belleville mayor to thank the community for its overwhelming support and to take a moment to remember those that have fallen in the line of duty.

If at all possible on behalf of myself and fellow troops, could you put a letter in the paper saying thanks from your troops for all the support and caring during this time of hardship.

Rockets are 5-0

Glenn rips Farmington 8-3 to remain perfect

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

The Scheffer brothers – Aaron and Lawrence – combined on a three-hitter to lift undefeated Westland John Glenn to an 8-3 victory over Farmington in the Western Lakes Division baseball opener Thursday afternoon.

The victory stretched the Rockets' winning streak to five games. And that streak will be placed on the block Monday when the Westlanders travel to Livonia Stevenson.

Stevenson is a co-favorite to win the divisional championship, and Glenn Coach Norm Hoenes says his team's early success "won't mean much if we lose divisional games."

"We can't afford a letdown now," Hoenes said.

"Stevenson has always fielded excellent baseball teams and from all indications, this year's team is keeping with tradition."

Hoenes was pleased with the Rockets' early play. "We have the momentum. I just hope we can keep it," he said.

Glenn jumped on losing pitcher Tom Shelp early. Shelp gave up a lead-off single to Gary Pierce, then made the serious mistake of throwing a slow curveball to Rob Fliary, who pounced on it for a two-run Homer, the ball sailing into deep left center field.

Shelp survived the inning and kept the Rockets scoreless until the top of the third when Lawrence Scheffer drilled a solo Homer – his fourth of the young season – to lift Glenn to a 3-0 lead.

That was all for Shelp. But not for Farmington.

The Falcons came back in their fourth and tied the game at 3-3. But that's all they got as Lawrence replaced his brother on the mound and pitched three scoreless innings to get the save.

The Westlanders came back and scored three times in the fifth and collected two insurance runs in the seventh.

Rocket base runners were playing havoc as they successfully stole on nine of their attempts. Steve Fuller, who collected two hits and accounted for two runs batted in, had four of those stolen bases, including a steal of home during a seventh-inning double steal.

"We're playing heads-up baseball," Hoenes said. "It's the kind of ball that is essential to winning games."

Romulus jolts Garden City 11-7

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus rallied for three runs in the bottom of the fifth to break a 7-7 tie that paved the way to a 11-7 victory over non-conference baseball rival Garden City.

"We got the job done, although we were shaky at times," said Romulus Coach Don Foley, whose club will enter the week with a 3-2 overall record. The Eagles will return home Tuesday to play a double-header with conference foe Ann Arbor Huron.

Romulus tilted the scoreboard for four runs in the first inning, but Garden City Coach Bob Dopp stuck with his starting pitcher, Jeff Kozakowski, who lasted four innings.

Two Garden City hurlers gave up a total of 11 Romulus hits. Rick Evans, Mark Harden and Jeff Luttermooser each collected two, while Ed Tank latched on to a two-run double in the fifth inning.

Wayne, Wyandotte split in track meet

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Buford leaped to victory in the long jump (19'9") and covered the 100 yards in an impressive 9.8.

Wayne also took the shot-put competition thanks to Joe Ramsey who had a put of 41'11".

Carter put together the winning lineup for the 880-yard relay as Bufford, Steve Caldwell, Glenn Dare and Keishman Daniels combined on a 1:37.0 run.

Wayne's mile relay team made up of Phil Gibson, Dare, Dumont and Buford was clocked in 3:46.0.

The Zebras will attempt to get back on the winning track Tuesday when they host out-of-league rival Romulus. They will also be at home Thursday for conference foe Lincoln Park.

In the meantime, the Zebras evened their conference mark in the women's division with a 69-59 victory over Wyandotte. Wayne swept 11 of the 16 events with the key to the victory coming in the last event – the mile relay.

Flyers down Inkster

It was the kind of game a coach wants to forget about but can't.

Inkster, a team that humbled Highland Park 16-1 in its Suburban Athletic Conference baseball opener a few days ago, was brought down to earth by the Willow Run Flyers Thursday.

The Flyers tagged Inkster starter Charles Adams for six runs in the first inning, then erupted for 10 more in the third en route to a 21-1 victory over Coach Tyrone Orr's Vikings.

"We didn't look like the same team that played against Highland Park," Orr said. "It looked like the sky fell in on us."

The loss evened the Vikings' SAC record to 1-1 on the season. Willow Run is 2-0 as the week begins.

The Vikings will make up a rained-out nonconference game with Lincoln Park on Monday and will play on the home field Tuesday when they will host Taylor Baptist Park.

Don't count out Belleville High

In a season that looks more like it may be remembered for its wind-and-rain chills, there are abundant reminders of life on the diamonds and in the fields of high school sports.

The horrors of Pay-to-Play and the sit and sleep-ins at Westland John Glenn may be capturing the headlines in most of the local newspapers, but when all is said and done, this season will produce its outstanding teams and athletes.

Do yourself a favor: Keep your eyes on Belleville High women's softball team. Although Coach Peggy Curtis' Tigers fell from the heavens after dropping their opener 8-7 to Lincoln Park, they have landed on their feet and are ready to redeem themselves.

"We got the monkey off our backs," said Curtis, who stunned the state when she took her team to back-to-back Class A state championships in 1983 and 1984, the first team to repeat in consecutive years. "We were ranked seventh in the state in the pre-season polls. That loss took care of that."

But not for long.

With seven blue-chip players returning to a team that ousted Plymouth Canton and Ann Arbor Pioneer in the districts for the title before losing to Livonia Franklin in the first round of the regional playoffs, the Belleville coach probably won't have to explain many losses this year.

Check out this Tiger lineup: Pitcher Dawn Rochowiak, outfielders Kelly Rochon and Keshia Wilson; infielders Linda Pasek, Tanya Kjellin and Karrie Gebhardt; and catcher Jenny Adkins. With the exception of Gebhardt, all are seniors.

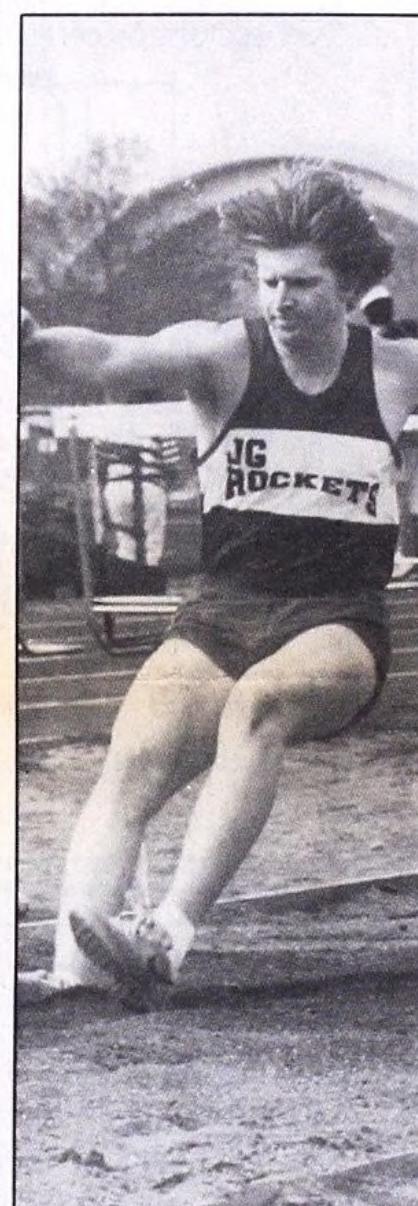

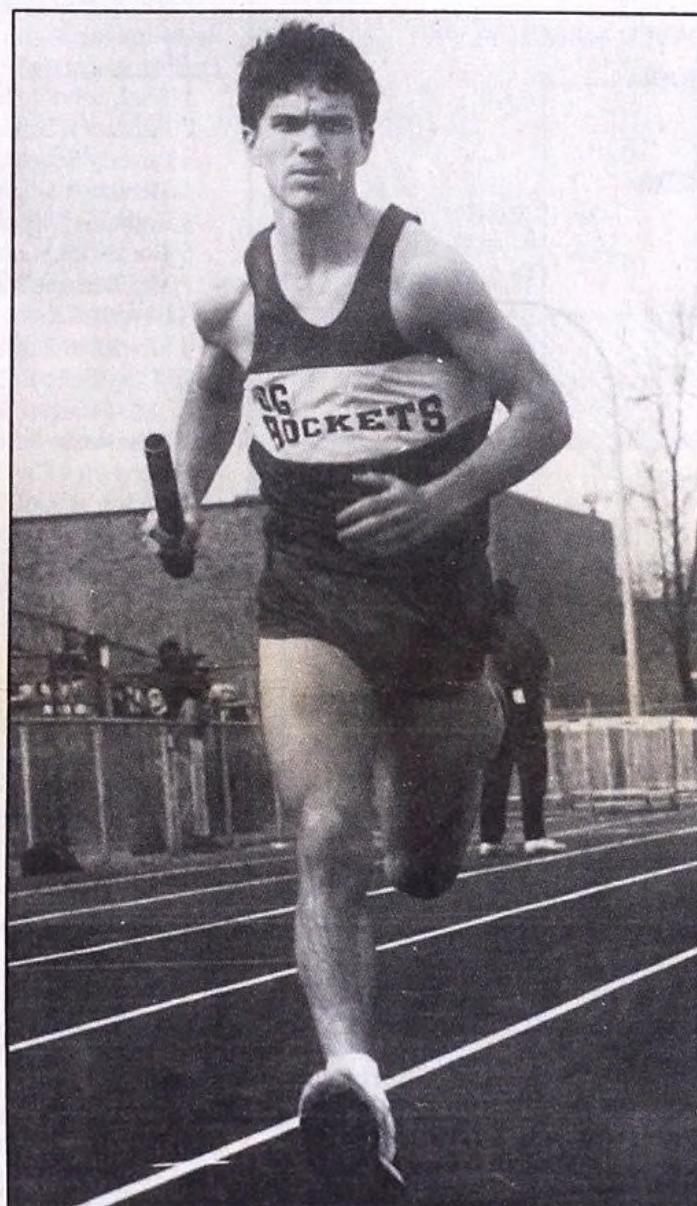

"The challenge lies directly on the shoulders of our seniors," Curtis said. "Seniors can carry you or bury you. There are so many distractions at the end of the year, and if the seniors let themselves get caught up in them, you're in trouble."

It hasn't happened in the past, and the way the Tigers rebounded and destroyed Fordson on Thursday (they walloped the Tractors 22-0 with Dawn Rochowiak pitching the season's first no-hitter), it doesn't look like the Tigers are going to roll over and die.

And only time will tell if this team will rank with the great teams of the 1983-84 unforgettable years.

The Westland John Glenn Rockets soared to their fourth straight victory at the expense of league rival North Farmington 115-22. Leading the 15-event sweep of the Falcons included junior varsity relay runner Ken Constantino, while Brian Schultz (above, at right) placed second in the long-jump competition. Glenn runner Mark Kauser placed second in the 110 hurdles and third in the 300 hurdles. ANP photos by Deanne L. DeYonker/staff photographer

Conner, Finley lead Rockets to 4th victory

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

With Lynette Conner and Amy Finley splitting six of their team's 11 victories, Westland John Glenn rolled over North Farmington 85-43 in a Western Lakes Division women's track and field meet.

"As a team, our kids stood out," said Glenn Coach John Kitchen, whose Rockets are undefeated in four starts this season. "Obviously, I also have to be pleased with Lynette's and Amy's performances."

The Rockets' men's team also continues to roll toward the title. Coach Jess Shough's runners had no trouble claiming a victory over Farmington.

They captured 15 of the 16 events. Conner placed first in the long jump competition (14'5") and the 16-year-old junior led the sprinters across the finish line in both the 100-meter (13.6) and the 200-meter (28.2) dashes.

Finley cleared 4'8" in the high jump for a first in that field event.

She also dominated the hurdles, clearing the obstacles in the 100-meter event in 17.6 and the 300-meter hurdles in 51.0.

Kitchen's 400-meter relay team of Melanie Cline, Joann Salem, Tamara Murphy and Connor was clocked in the winning time of 56.0, while the Rocket foursome of Dana Nowicki, Tina Honeycutt, Finley and Rebecca Berczel topped the 1,600-meter relay with a 4:37.0 performance.

The Rockets' Cathy Riney turned in a double by winning the discus with a toss of 88'6", and she took home a first in the shot put with a put of 29'7 1/2".

Teammate Kim Springer picked up the only other Glenn victory. It came in the 400-meter run, where she was clocked in 66.6.

The Rockets have always-troublesome Livonia Churchill on its conference path Tuesday before returning home to host their visitors from Walled Lakes Central Thursday.

"We have a busy week next week," Kitchen said. "The week could tell us a lot about this team."

Buford leaped to victory in the long jump (19'9") and covered the 100 yards in an impressive 9.8.

Wayne also took the shot-put competition thanks to Joe Ramsey who had a put of 41'11".

Carter put together the winning lineup for the 880-yard relay as Bufford, Steve Caldwell, Glenn Dare and Keishman Daniels combined on a 1:37.0 run.

Wayne's mile relay team made up of Phil Gibson, Dare, Dumont and Buford was clocked in 3:46.0.

The Zebras will attempt to get back on the winning track Tuesday when they host out-of-league rival Romulus. They will also be at home Thursday for conference foe Lincoln Park.

In the meantime, the Zebras evened their conference mark in the women's division with a 69-59 victory over Wyandotte. Wayne swept 11 of the 16 events with the key to the victory coming in the last event – the mile relay.

Doctor reports from desert

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

When Capt. Daniel O'Brien starts his day in Saudi Arabia, he remembers to shake out his boots and check for scorpions.

In an April 4 letter to The Enterprise, the former Van Buren Township trustee noted since the temperature has climbed into the 90s, the scorpions are coming out of the ground to seek a cool shelter.

"We have had classes on scorpion stings and snake bites. However, our main concern is now heat exhaustion and heat stroke. Yesterday, one of our captains was sent to the hospital. He received five liters of fluids for dehydration. We are now on a buddy system to monitor each other on our water consumption," O'Brien said. "On the good side, we have seen no snakes."

On the day he wrote, O'Brien had received a copy of an Enterprise article, which was enjoyed by everyone there, he said.

"The weather has warmed dramatically and we had a high yesterday of 97 degrees. With the increased heat, the sand storms have been violent. With eye goggles, it is nearly impossible to work out-of-doors," O'Brien said. "Helicopters are unable to fly and our medical resupply efforts are greatly hampered. We have been moving tremendous amounts of medical materials to support the humanitarian missions in Kuwait and Iraq.

"We are supporting our Mobile Army Surgical Hospital in Iraq, two MASH units in Kuwait and one Combat Support Hospital in Kuwait, plus three divisions with their aid stations and clearing companies. When you see the Kuwaiti and Iraqi patients in the hospital, it is all worthwhile," O'Brien said.

O'Brien hopes to leave Saudi Arabia by May 14. His unit is on the list to return but, unfortunately, it is third from the bottom of the list of 62 units, he said.

"The weather has warmed quicker if there is air space. The rest of the unit is from Germany, and they are on active duty. Hopefully, they will release the reserves early, but it will all depend on the permanent ceasefire and the pullout from Iraq," O'Brien said. "In any event, we hope to be home by the 14th of May. This is our 180-day time limit. Our unit has

Ambulance contract extended 3 years

With only minor changes, the contract to provide ambulance services to Belleville residents was extended to three years.

A pact with Huron Valley Ambulance was approved by the Belleville City Council with the addition of an advisory committee and a six-month termination clause for either party. A HVA proposal to require a washing area adjacent to the ambulance station area was deleted from the contract.

The three-year contract, which can be renewed annually, features the following provisions:

- HVA will provide emergency advance life support ambulance service on a continuous seven-day per week and 24-hour per day basis.

- HVA will be responsible for the maintenance of the facilities made available by the city.

- An ambulance advisory committee will be established by HVA to advise the HVA executive director on matters relating to the performance of the service. Representatives from Belleville, Sumpter Township and Van Buren Township will serve on the board and meet quarterly.

Winter babies make the perfect marriage match

Dear Elizabeth,

I am a female born Jan. 18, 1958, my fiance's birthday is Dec. 11, 1963. We plan to be married the end of this year. Could you tell me what my future brings with this man. Thank you.

Love C.S.

Dear C.S.,

I bet you're glad 1990 is over. Your chart shows me that it would have been a very tough year for you. You and your fiance have a good mixture of Sagitarian and Capricorn signs in both of your charts. For a Sagitarian he has more planets in the sign of Capricorn. I'm sure the two of you are an excellent match. I am sure that he can't wait to be a father. It is showing me that you could get pregnant shortly after your marriage. Therefore, if you are not ready, be careful. I'm sure that you both knew when you first met one another that this would be a lasting relationship.

Love, Elizabeth

Dear Elizabeth,

Your predictions were quite accurate for the months of January, February and March, especially where money was involved. I am presently in such a down mode that I have not hit bottom yet. I do not believe that I have ever had such a bad month of April in years. Could you do some investigating for me for the month of April on, referencing money, family and relations. Also, you said that I would meet a love interest in late June or early July, what sign might he be? Thank you once again for your information, it is greatly appreciated. Good luck and may the stars be with you. My birth date is April 18, 1953.

Sincerely, Bothered and Bewildered

Dear Bothered and Bewildered Reader,

In astrological terms, transiting Pluto opposed your natal Mars and transiting Mars squared your natal Mercury. It happened between April 3 and 11m and aren't you glad that's over. In layman's terms, I can see why you were frustrated, but you could not do a thing about it and fortunately it is over. The card layout that I have around you is still showing me that you could meet someone before the end of June. It is showing me a darker-haired male and there are very good luck cards in the layout. However, I will point out that you have to get out of the house to meet him. It is not the UPS man, he is married. I do not see any major family problems in the cards around you. I know that May and the months after will be much better for you.

Love, Elizabeth

Dear Elizabeth,

My husband's birth date is June 24, 1956, mine is Nov. 30, 1957. We own a house in Detroit and we had to make people move out. I would like to know if we are going to sell it? I also would like to go back to school. Could you tell me what courses I should take?

Need Help

Dear Need Help,

I feel that there is a very good possibility as far as the sale of your home, however, not before the end of August. You are married to a very easy going male. A good family man. Someone who will allow this Sagitarian almost anything she wants. Careerwise, such fields that I see you doing well at include law, paralegal, education or nursing. You are a very knowledgeable young lady and learn very quickly. However, with the humanitarian aspects I see in your chart, you would also excel in the legal or medical professions.

Education, war help pump up local blood supplies

Donations increase locally

Better education and a surge of wartime patriotism have helped stockpile local blood supplies, at least for now.

But area blood donation office managers warn blood only lasts up to 42 days, and current supplies could dwindle if donation levels are not maintained or increased in the near future.

"We're looking at a possible shortage by Memorial Day if we don't continue collecting enough blood," said Denise Morrow, American Red Cross spokeswoman. "In the last few months, we have met all of our blood-supply needs with local donations. Normally, the Detroit area imports blood, especially during the summer months."

"A lot of people gave blood for the first time during the war. We know they're out there, and we need them to return."

Morrow said the most common excuse she hears from people to avoid giving blood is fear of needles. Fear of receiving AIDS is second on the list, she said.

"You can't get AIDS from giving blood," she said. "It's not possible."

The excuses are the same at Ypsilanti Plasma Center, where donors receive an average of $15 for a pint of plasma. Because the center extracts only the liquid part of the blood (plasma) and returns the white and red blood cells, a donor can give plasma up to two times a week, year-round. Blood donations, on the other hand, must be made six weeks apart.

The Ypsilanti Plasma Center averages 600 donations a week, and screens each donor carefully beforehand, according to Assistant Manager DeAnn Chick.

"We peaked during the war months, but through better education and awareness, our donation levels are still doing pretty well," Chick said. "People are better educated and are not as scared as they used to be about getting AIDS from donating blood. But some are still afraid of the needles."

As far as safety is concerned, Chick said her employees wear masks, gloves and are vaccinated for hepatitis. Each patient is also tested for hepatitis and given a complete physical before entering the center as a donor.

In addition, donors receive "mini-physicals" each time they walk into the center to give plasma.

"We carefully screen all of our patients," Chick said. "We go to extraordinary precautions, and everything we use is sterile."

For more information about donating blood, call 1-800-582-4383.

Chew gum and fight tooth decay

A new chewing gum on the market has dentists singing.

This gum is proven to cut plaque build-up of the teeth by as much as 50 percent and prevent new cavities.

Dentists are usually skeptical about such claims, but XyliFresh Gum has captured their interest.

XyliFresh is sweetened with Xylitol, a safe, carbohydrate sweetener found in fruits and vegetables such as strawberries and mushrooms.

Regular use of the gum after meals and snacks, combined with a consistent program of good oral hygiene, has been proven to fight tooth decay.

The chewing gum should be available soon in the health and beauty aids section of supermarkets and drug stores. It sells for about $2.79 for 44 pieces of gum.

Tested in Scandinavian countries, dentists say the benefits are more difficult to measure in this country. Fluoride in the water here has already proven very effective in cutting back on tooth decay. Cavities are not found as frequently as they once were.

Some dentists, however, said they suggest patients, who are especially prone to plaque build-up, use the gum to help improve their dental health.

The gum is especially suited for children, dentists say, because they will most likely chew gum anyway. XyliFresh is the better, healthier choice. They can blow bubbles and "snap" it, too.

Xylitol was first discovered in Germany in the 19th Century. Dental professionals discovered its dental health properties in 1970 and it has been marketed in Europe for more than 15 years.

XyliFresh gum is manufactured by Leaf Specialty Products, a division of Leaf, Inc. of Illinois.

So chew your way to better dental health, dentists say.

"I never criticize other restaurants, because I know how much work goes into food preparation. All kinds of foods have their place," Alvarado said. "For example, the fast-food restaurants introduce people to different types of foods that they might not otherwise try. There's as much difference in a fast-food taco and one served at our restaurant as there is in a fast-food hamburger and one served at Miller's in Dearborn. However, there's a place for all foods and all types of restaurants."

"Porterhouse steak," is the choice of Omega Restaurant Assistant Manager Scott Gocaj, who also orders steak when he dines away from the downtown Wayne restaurant.

Gocaj chooses potato skins with cheddar cheese and bacon as his favorite appetizer, potato soup as his favorite soup and fresh strawberry pie to provide the perfect finish to his meal.

"When I'm at home, I snack on microwave foods," Gocaj confided. Skyview Restaurant owner Toni Crech enjoys salads and cheese sticks as appetizers at her Romulus restaurant.

She named Italian sausage soup and chicken stir fry as her favorite dinner items and a hot fudge ice cream puff as her favorite dessert.

When Crech dines at another restaurant, she usually orders chicken or fish. At home, her favorite snack is a dish of ice cream.

Hassan Berro, manager of the Elias Bros. Big Boy on Merriman Road, prefers chicken rice soup, a salad and hamburger at his restaurant. He ends his meal with strawberries and cake, his favorite dessert.

When dining elsewhere, Berro is apt to order fish or chicken. He names cheese and fruit as his favorite at-home snacks.

When owner Maria Leung scans the five-page menu of Cantonese, Szechuan and Mandarin foods at the New Pagoda in Belleville, she most often selects the Imperial Lo Mein for dinner.

"The Imperial Lo Mein is a stir-fry of chicken, scallops and shrimp with pan-fried soft noodles," Leung said.

Other favorites are Mongolian-style beef, pork or chicken, which features the meat or poultry with green onions and a rice noodle garnish; spicy Princess Pork, which is stir-fried in a spicy Szechuan hot sauce, and Chicken with Cashews, a dish which features bit-size pieces of stir-fried chicken and cashew nuts in a special sauce, the restaurant owner said.

When Leung and her husband, Ming, dine elsewhere, their choices are the same, since their menu reflects their special tastes.

For an appetizer, the Chinese restaurant specializes in homemade egg rolls, and to top off the meal, nothing else but a fortune cookie.

Mike Makridakis' menu at the Canton Cafe features his own favorite foods, so just about anything listed could be his dinner choice.

"My favorite would be a steak sandwich, made with a New York strip on our homemade bread. I like the beef stew, too," Makridakis said. "All of our soups are homemade, and my favorites are chicken noodle and navy bean."

For dessert, there is no question that Makridakis would choose the rice pudding for which his restaurant is famous.

Several years ago, while working in a Chicago-area restaurant Makridakis came across the best rice pudding he had ever tasted, he said. At first, the chef refused to share his recipe, but when Makridakis assured him the restaurant he planned to open in Canton Township would not be in competition with his, the chef gave him the secret recipe.

When dining out, Makridakis orders either prime rib or a New York strip steak.

"I always keep an eye on what goes on in the kitchen when I eat out. I know how things should be done, and I know the kitchen and the cooks should be clean and neat."

Trainer turns 'monsters' into lovable family pets

Is there any one of us who doesn't dread going to the dentist or the doctor? I doubt it. We all hate hearing, "Well, that molar has a biggie in it" or "Well, you're definitely going to have to change your eating habits from now on."

No matter what we anticipate the dentist or doctor will say, we hate hearing it. Let's face it. By the time we make that all-important appointment we already know something needs fixing or changing. None of us, after the age of 18, I think, welcomes changes to what we consider our perfect way of doing things. This attitude is no different among the dog owners who call me for advice or attend my evaluation.

It is important for all dog owners / lovers to accept the fact they are not necessarily qualified to train their dogs or do right by their dogs simply because they have one. Thank goodness for that because if everyone did qualify, I'd be out of a job. And I love my job.

Attitude and acceptance are important words to remember here. You must come to the conclusion that you will probably need professional advice regarding the behavior of your dog. You will have to swallow hard, make the call and adopt the attitude which allows me to really heal you. You will have to accept the fact that I am the trainer.

I realize all of us have had several pets from the time we were children to the present. What matters here is that if we are honest, we really don't remember having any problem with the family puppy because we were probably just 8 or 10 years old. Our parents were the ones with the problem dog. OK, now we're all grown up and have purchased a pet for the children or for ourselves and the dog is a monster. Why is that? You can't recall having this kind of trouble with a dog before.

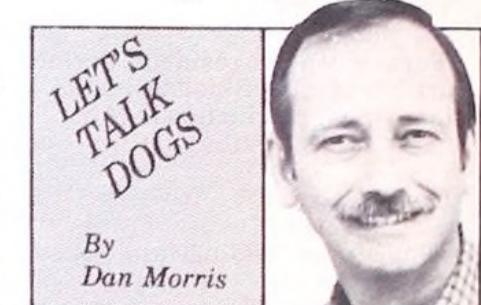

So what happens next? Generally, the usual thing to do is to complain about the dog to whoever happens to listen. This is usually the spouse.

That's where I come in. The phone will ring and on the other end will be someone who absolutely, positively guarantees me their dog is hopeless, but I'm the last resort and they're counting on me. Naturally, what is expected is that I solve every problem over the phone, free of charge, in 25 words or less. I'm to turn this dog into the best-behaved dog in the entire canine world right then and there. And, of course, they don't believe in obedience training for any number of reasons.

Now where does this put me? Immediately, I have been placed in the position of having to justify training, explain my qualifications, question the home environment to ascertain why the dog is behaving so badly, etc. Still, after all this conversation, I'm left with the impression the caller doesn't believe me. So I suggest they attend the evaluation I conduct Monday evenings. I emphasize that it's free, and they are not obligated to join the school, but an appointment is required. Most people are happy to set aside one hour during the week for their dog, many are not.

During the evaluation, I am able to determine just what this dog is all about. I can tell about the disposition, the temperament, how the dog uses its energy and body weight, what the best method would be in training each particular dog I walk around. As soon as I'm done I explain to each dog owner the reason for their dog's behavior and what is necessary to change it.

I try to explain to pet owners that negative treatment breeds negative behavior. I emphasize the right and wrongs of the home environment and how simple changes could turn around the dog's behavior. I give training aids and step-by-step suggestions of easy methods to use for minor behavior problems. More often than not, I am given the icy, cold stare of defiance. Enough times, I am fortunate to have the equal number of people admit to having done wrong things with their dogs and are willing to correct them.

I'm not trying to embarrass anyone who happens to have a problem dog. I'm trying to help. Most of the time the dozens of training aids and suggestions are given happily and for free. I am always available by telephone and I've had people call me on a major holiday for advice and I've never refused their call. I really do want to help any and all of the people who love their dogs enough to want the best for them.

Dog training takes time and patience. It also requires a sense of humor...about yourself. Do you possess these traits? If so, you're the perfect candidate for dog ownership. Join the millions of people who have a pup and you will have joined a very special club.

THE FLORIDA KEYS

The 160 miles of island-dotted highway and the 42 bridges connecting Miami, Florida with Key West are known as the Florida Keys. The Keys feature fishing, diving, sailing, boating, shelling and other water sports. After crossing a necklace of 45 islands, you arrive in Key West, the southernmost point of the United States.

The 1½ hour Conch Tour Train will familiarize you with the island and all of its highlights. One of the major attractions is Ernest Hemingway's home where the author lived for many years and where he wrote 75% of his novels. It is furnished with treasures the Hemingway's brought from Spain. Another home was made famous by John Audobon, who lived and painted his famous birds here during the 1830's. A rare art treasure, his completed original four volume folio is on display.

See the living coral reef from a glass-bottomed sightseeing boat, sample the superb seafood, have a bowl of conch chowder or some Key lime pie while watching an incomparable sunset from Mallory Square. Key West, where the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic meet, for the vacation of a lifetime!

Local actor to star in production of 'Cats'

Former Wayne resident Carmen Yurich will play Skimbleshanks in the traveling production of "Cats" at The Palace of Auburn Hills next week.

Yurich recently toured the U.S. and Europe in "Evita" and the U.S. as Phaedra in "La Cage aux Folles".

In addition to his travels in popular stage shows, Yurich performed in "West Side Story" with Michigan Opera, danced with the Joffrey Concert Group, and appeared on the daytime drama "Guiding Light".

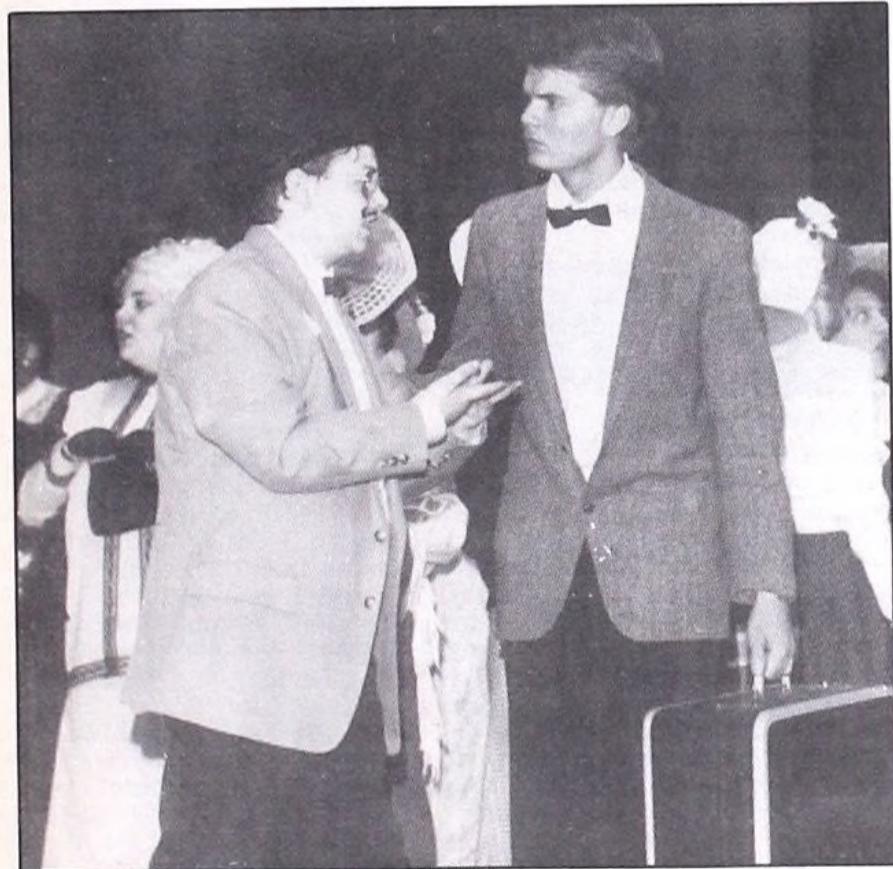

Chrysler-Plymouth will present Andrew Lloyd Webber's musical hit "Cats", based on T.S. Eliot's "Old Possum's Book of Practical Cats".

There will be five performances at The Palace: 8 p.m. April 23, 2 and 8 p.m. April 24, and 2 and 8 p.m. April 25.

Performed by the National Touring Company, "Cats" is the first Broadway show to appear at The Palace. Most of the arena will be blocked off, and The Palace will be transformed into an intimate theater setting, according to Scott Heitman of The Palace.

There will also be two video screens to enhance and enlarge the live action on stage. The show will feature expanded sets from the theater production and additional pyrotechnics.

Tickets for the show are $32.50, $29.50, $25 and $20 reserved. They are available at The Palace box office and all Ticketmaster locations. Discounts are available for large groups. Phone 377-0100.

Autumn is final edition to 'Brambly' series

After a long, hot summer in Brambly Hedge, everyone was looking forward to a cool, crisp fall. Autumn Story, the third season book in Jill Barklem's The Four Seasons of Brambly Hedge, finds everyone gathering their blackberries, seeds, roots and nuts to take to the Store Stump for winter storage.

On this particular autumn day, Lord Woodmouse, who lived in the Old Oak Palace, was out gathering fall bounty with his daughter, Primrose. As they picked blackberries, they ran into Mrs. Eyebright, who was looking for them. She wanted to inform them that she could feel bad weather on its way because her bones were aching.

Lord Woodmouse knew that Mrs. Eyebright was a wise, old lady, and if she said the weather was bad, it was going to be bad. Lord Woodmouse continued to help gather the bounty as Primrose played about.

GINGER'S CORNER

By Ginger Bruder

Soon Lord Woodmouse inquired of the group as to Primrose's whereabouts and discovered that she was nowhere to be found.

The children thought that she was at her grandmother's house, Crabbapple Cottage. Her grandmother hadn't seen her. A search party was sent to the Store Stump and she wasn't there either. Lord and Lady Woodmouse returned to Old Oak Palace and searched it thoroughly, yet there was no Primrose.

Meanwhile, Primrose was wandering along the cornfields playing and daydreaming, as she often did, unaware of the search for her. As she was scurrying about, she came across a charming little cottage where two elderly field mice lived. They fed her and visited with her. She left there and headed toward Chestnut Woods, where she discovered a very interesting hole. She wandered in and before her eyes was a tunnel with many mazes and passages. She found it interesting at first, but became more afraid as she wandered. She saw a flash of light and headed out of the hole, only to find she had lost her way.

Night settled in and the winds were howling, preparing for a thunderous storm. Primrose knew without question that she was lost. Her fears did not subside as she hid in the woods, trying to protect herself from the elements. A bit later, she saw five flickering lights coming toward her. At first the figures appeared shapeless and headless. She became more scared, trying to hide from the approaching visitors, yet wanting to find out who they were.

As she peeped from behind the bramble, she saw someone walking with a limp. When she looked closer, she saw a tail and whiskers. Lo and behold, it was her grandfather, Mr. Apple. Travelling with Mr. Apple was Mrs. Apple, Dusty Dogwood and her parents, Lord and Lady Woodmouse.

The entire series of Brambly Hedge books are delightful reading for children.

Ginger's Corner is written each week by Ginger Bruder, owner of Miss Ginger's on Main Street in Belleville and a former editor of children's books.

Neighbors

Welcome home

Nearly 100 area residents flocked to the airport Saturday to welcome local service men and women returning from their stint in the Persian Gulf. Some of those attending the celebration were friends and relatives of the veterans, but most were neighbors and well-wishers who knew very little about the heroes who were exiting the plane. Chris Dearing was the guest of honor at this celebration. He receives a hug from his father, Richard, (right) after getting off the plane. His sister, Annette, (below) waited anxiously for a glimpse of her brother. Mom, Pat Walker, (bottom, left) gets a hug. Dearing and his wife, Linda, (bottom, right) finally enjoy a moment alone in a limousine provided for their trek home to Westland.
